

CREATE YOUR BEST WRITING ENVIRONMENT

Now that you've had some time to write at home, I want you to think about the BEST place for you to get your writing done.

Imagine what the space would look like.

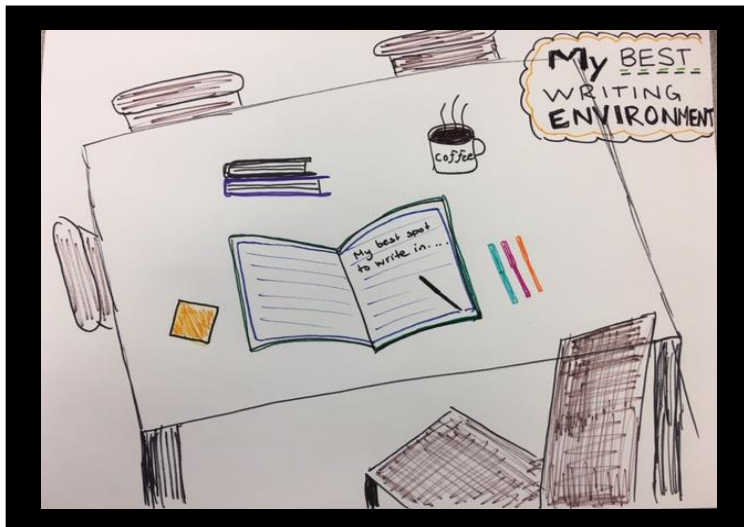

Think:

What do you need in a writing space?
Is it quiet or is there background noise?
What would the space look like?

Sketch a picture of your writing space.

Describe what your writing space would look like. Write so that I can picture your space exactly.

See my example below:

My home writing space is in my kitchen. I usually sit down there first thing in the morning so that I can get my writing done while the house is still quiet. I like it because I can spread my books all over the table. There is a notebook right in front of me and a handful of Flair pens close by. I don't know why but I always like to have more than one pen handy. A pad of sticky notes is also nearby just in case I need to make a jot note or a correction. Of course, there is almost always a nice warm cup of coffee for me to sip on when I'm thinking, as well. This is my ideal at home writing space.